

Renown Spanish judge arrives in Bulgaria

Submitted on Wednesday, 20 May 2009

The Spanish judge Javier Gomez Bermudez will arrive in Bulgaria. He is one of the most popular - and most protected - magistrates in Spain and is already in the lists of the terrorist organization ETA.

He arrived in Bulgaria on the invitation of the club “Journalists against corruption”.

He will participate in a seminar for the presentation of the film “Spain - judicial model, good practices” by the chairman of the club Reneta Nikolova. Extraordinary safety measures will take place during his visit.

Javier Bermudez is the judge of the famous case for one of the heaviest crimes in the history of modern Europe - the 2004 Madrid train bombings on Atocha Station.
